

P&Y AND B&C OFFICIAL SCORERS

This is a list of Pope and Young measurers and Boone and Crockett measurers in Nebraska, provided by Steve Woitaszewski, NBA records chairman. Sixty days must elapse before antlers, horns or skulls can be measured. Bowhunters are certainly anxious to receive the official measurements, but most scorers request the trophy be left overnight in order to do a thorough and accurate job. Please call ahead and arrange an appointment. If two phone numbers are listed, the home number is followed by a work number. An asterisk(*) following a name means that person is also a Boone and Crockett measurer. If you are an official scorer and are not listed here, please let the records chairman know your information.

The NBA urges all members to have their animals scored, and to encourage non-member bowhunters to also have their trophies scored and entered in NBA records. While the NBA certainly was not formed with trophy recognition as a primary emphasis, we would like to draw greater attention to the scoring/records system so it will be as complete as possible.

The NBA has published the First Edition of the Nebraska Bowhunting Record Book and, each year, prints an update page. The association doesn't require a recording fee to have animals listed in the NBA Record Book, but requires that the animal be scored by an official measurer (listed above) and then submitted to the Records Chairman.
